World Confectionery Consumption and Production

All data collected by Caobisco and the International Confectionery Association (ICA). The ICA facilitates, coordinates and communicates international scientific, regulatory and public affairs information for members while promoting and representing the interests of the confectionery industry in a collaborative and responsible manner.

Member associations collectively represent more than 3,000 companies in over 30 countries worldwide. It is estimated that together these countries manufacture over 70 percent of the confectionery produced in the world. Caobisco represents approximately 2,000 companies of the chocolate, biscuits and confectionery sectors of the European Union. A full statistical report can be ordered from www.caobisco.com.